LEADERSHIP

with ENGAGEMENT

and ACCOUNTABILITY

at work

a conference to explore work roles and put discoveries into practice

7 – 12 January 2010, Vlodrop (the Netherlands)

This bi-annual conference:

LEADERSHIP with ENGAGEMENT and ACCOUNTABILITY at work

7 – 12 January 2010, Vlodrop (NL)

is the 15th international working conference in a series which started in 1992

offered by Group Relations Nederland in co-operation with the School of Governance (USG), Utrecht University

The aim of this conference is:

- to examine assumptions participants hold about Leadership, Engagement and Accountability, and
- in the process of working, discover the consequences of these assumptions, in order to

- try out different ways of working while engaging with each other in the various groups and events of the conference, and
- prepare for future application of the learning in their workplaces and communities.

This conference can be thought of as a temporary organization, where real issues are present and real social dynamics occur.

Why call it a temporary organization?
Because for a period of six days we allow ourselves to manage the boundaries and resources of this event in the service of discovery and learning about roles and relations – associated with the lived images, emotions and thoughts.

So whatever the particular motives behind your desire to participate, you'll experience many opportunities to put your current assumptions to the test and try out alternative behaviours in practice.

Over the years, this event has brought together people from many countries and continents, representing a rich variety of professional and cultural backgrounds. They have referred to this event as a significant moment in their work and life.

Participation is open to everyone, with a maximum of 48 members. If you have participated in a similar conference before, you can apply for a subsystem with others who also come to a next one.

The temporary organization is staffed by an international group of up to 12 consultants and directed by Jaume Benavent i Guardia and Gerard van Reekum.

We kindly invite you to take part in this conference. All inquiries are welcome.
